Mableton, GA - The Marietta Diner follows in the great tradition of diners across the USA, serving a menu that offers everything from bacon and eggs to paella 24 hours a day. With thousands of guests coming through their doors on a daily basis the dishes tend to pile up quickly, a way of life at most diners. So when they brought in a new vendor for janitorial supplies they had no idea that a little recommendation on equipment would help save the diner tremendous amounts of money on water usage.

They chose ADCO Services, Inc., a local chemical distribution vendor who installed a new conveyor dish machine to replace the diner's old dish machine. The new machine provided a savings of almost a gallon of water per rack which adds up quickly considering how many dishes are washed per day. Water consumption was monitored at the Marietta Diner and their sister restaurant, Pasta Bella for two years after the new machines were installed and the results were astounding.

In the first two years, over a million gallons of water was saved. To really understand the savings brought by this change, the Marietta Water and Sewer department provided the monetary rate the diner is charged for water usage. Between both establishments it was determined that ADCO Services, Inc. helped their customers save over $11,000! "In addition to the energy savings, their service program is simply the best we have seen," says Owner, Gus Tselios. "They provide the quality, service and results others only talk about."

ADCO Services, Inc. is well known amongst their customers for striving to find big rewards in the little things. Sometimes that comes in the form of providing a degreaser that helps get the job done quicker and more efficiently. Other times it comes from the option of using a product that not only cleans an office building but keeps the earth that way too. However, the case of the Marietta Diner and Pasta Bella provides one of the most amazing stories of ADCO's commitment to their clients, their community and the environment. The metrics were only measured for two years but the savings will continue for the lifetime of the establishments.

ADCO Services, Inc. is the premier southeastern leader and provider of cleaning, chemical and janitorial products for a variety of business sectors including hospitality, daycare, carpet care, industrial and government.
